

BIG MORE VICTORIES IN MAYOR'S RACE

Mayor-Elect Tells Friends and Workers Factionalism in City Must End

PROMISES MERIT SYSTEM

A sudden hush fell over prominent members of the Town Meeting party, the Republican Alliance and the committee of one hundred, assembled at the Moore headquarters early this morning.

Mayor-elect Moore, standing on a table in the crowded room and raising his hand for silence, said he and his colleagues were going to keep the affairs of the new administration free from factionalism.

Everybody cheered. "We are going to work for the big things here in Philadelphia," Mr. Moore said, "and we are not going to bother with the little things of faction."

"We are going to make a change in affairs in City Hall and on the police force as well. We are going to put in a merit system so that a man employed by the city government will be promoted on the basis of his merit and looking forward to better things will have a chance for advancement."

"I want to have the members of the police force feel no proud of their uniform as if they were soldiers, and they are going to have a chance to realize their aspirations for better positions without having to do dirty work to get there."

"We hope to have the united support of Council also and to be permitted to rely on public sentiment. We have no fear of publicity, but we intend to encourage it. We have no desire for secrecy. This is to be a people's administration, and we are in a position to pay no heed to the criticism."

"I am asking for public support we shall know no faction. We shall be for a union of the people and want harmonious action. In expecting the support of the city government, we are going to do big things and don't care a rap for the little things or petty factions."

The Mayor-elect was emphatic in declaring his intention of keeping the police out of politics. He repeatedly announced the police department would be administered along nonpartisan lines, and that he would work for an increase in pay for the patrolmen. There were several policemen in the room who, to a group of four patrolmen he said:

"I want to help you fellows. I know you all mean to do the right thing, and I mean to help you."

Republican leaders had collected at the headquarters long before the Mayor-elect arrived at half-past 11. The atmosphere of the room was one of good victory, and of the realization of a good work well done. Groups of men prominent in the politics of the city smoked and chatted with an air of interest but not expectancy.

Gathered about a desk in one of the small glass-enclosed offices were Thomas W. Cunningham, head of the Republican Alliance; George W. Coles, of the Town Meeting party and treasurer of the Moore campaign committee; Howard R. Sheppard and V. Frank Gable, of the committee of one hundred, and several other leaders of the party.

Others in Party. Other well-known men who welcomed the Mayor-elect on his arrival were John Walter, chairman of the committee of one hundred; Horace M. Riley, chairman of the Town Meeting party; J. J. Donner, secretary of the committee of one hundred; Director of Public Safety David J. Smyth, Durell Shuster, secretary to Mr. Moore; Colonel W. W. Morgan, James Heron, of the Thirty-sixth ward; E. A. DeVin, leader of the Eighth ward; Judge Charles Brown, of Montgomery; Claude L. Roth, Harry Wittig and Clarence H. Goldstein.

A number of women—wives and relatives of the candidates—sat at the back of the office and followed the events of the evening with keen interest.

When the Mayor-elect came in he smilingly responded to an outburst of applause and cheers as he walked to the rear of the room, though he was surrounded by friends who shook his hand with warm congratulations.

Looks on Friendly Crowd. As he stood on the table-top to make his short address, the Mayor-elect looked through the smoke-laden air on a crowd of friends who were gathered here and there in the front ranks the bright eyes of women, and the ruddy faces of blue-capped members of the force gleaming like stars of a brighter city administration.

With a twinkle in his eye Mr. Moore remarked that, like the dandy with the watermelon, the more thought he could get away with, he too, had "gone on a done it."

He went conversationally, generally, and in a friendly way, telling of things that he hoped to see in Philadelphia under the new administration.

After concluding his speech and shaking hands with more than twenty who had come in from wards all over the city, the Mayor-elect left for home shortly before 1 o'clock.

Mayor-Elect, Senator Vare and Wescott All Pleased

Mayor-elect Moore: "My administration is to be for the good of the people. We shall depend upon public sentiment to aid in making the new administration a success. No factions will be recognized. I will court the widest publicity. I want to say to those who have been loyally standing by the ticket that we are going to stand for big things, and we don't care a rap about the little things."

Senator Vare: "Everything went fine. The result of the election is satisfactory to me. The bottom seems to have fallen out of the contest even before the opponents were matched at the polls. My friends stood for a straight Republican ticket, except, perhaps, for a few places where they had personal differences."

Harry D. Wescott, defeated Democratic majority candidate: "We have succeeded in doing what we could reasonably have expected to do. We have given the so-called Charter party a fine thrashing and it will never be heard of again. In electing all the minor offices we have established our party on a solid basis of respect as a real minority party. Without fusion or deal we will continue to build it up into an aggressive fighting unit which will be a real force in Philadelphia politics and as such will be a force for the good of the city."

Vote in Councilmanic Fight as Talled From Every Ward

Table with 4 columns: District, Ward, Candidate, and Votes. Includes 1st, 4th, and 8th Councilmanic Districts.

Table with 4 columns: District, Ward, Candidate, and Votes. Includes 2nd, 5th, and 7th Councilmanic Districts.

Table with 4 columns: District, Ward, Candidate, and Votes. Includes 3rd, 6th, and 8th Councilmanic Districts.

Table with 4 columns: District, Ward, Candidate, and Votes. Includes 4th, 5th, and 7th Councilmanic Districts.

Table with 4 columns: District, Ward, Candidate, and Votes. Includes 5th, 6th, and 8th Councilmanic Districts.

Table with 4 columns: District, Ward, Candidate, and Votes. Includes 6th, 7th, and 8th Councilmanic Districts.

Table with 4 columns: District, Ward, Candidate, and Votes. Includes 7th, 8th, and 9th Councilmanic Districts.

Table with 4 columns: District, Ward, Candidate, and Votes. Includes 8th, 9th, and 10th Councilmanic Districts.

Table with 4 columns: District, Ward, Candidate, and Votes. Includes 9th, 10th, and 11th Councilmanic Districts.

Table with 4 columns: District, Ward, Candidate, and Votes. Includes 10th, 11th, and 12th Councilmanic Districts.

MOORE and Vare Men in the New Council

MOORE SUPPORTERS: Third district—Hetzell, Fourth district—Burch, Connell and Develin.

VARE SUPPORTERS: First district—Gaffney, Finley and Cox.

5 JUDGES ELECTED WITHOUT CONTEST

Votes Somewhat Cut, but Selection Merely Ratified Non-Partisan Ballot Names

FIGHT PRECEDED PRIMARY

The result of the voting on the five judgeships was a foregone conclusion from the opening of the polls yesterday.

Those elected were: Superior Court—Judge William H. Keller, present incumbent, Lancaster, 123,412 votes.

Common Pleas Court—Judge Joseph P. McCallen, recently appointed by Governor Sprout to fill vacancy, 126,048 votes.

Orphans' Court—Judge George Handerson, recently appointed by Governor Sprout to fill vacancy, 124,740 votes.

Municipal Court—Judges Charles E. Bartlett, 123,963; Thomas F. McNichol, 121,148.

Both Judges Bartlett and McNichol were named by Governor Sprout to fill unexpired terms.

The judgeships became an issue prior to the primary election, when the Vare organization advanced several candidates in opposition to the appointees.

Governor Sprout let it be known that if the sitting judges were not nominated it would be considered an affront to himself.

WOMAN WINS SCHOOL JOB

Mrs. Mittle Easton Defeats Three Stroudeburg Men

Stroudeburg, Pa., Nov. 5.—For the first time this borough yesterday elected a woman school director.

LANE LEADS MARCH IN RAIN

Veteran 20th Ward Leader Preserves Custom of Sixty Years

Braving the downpour of rain, Twentieth ward Republicans, led by David H. Lane, their veteran leader, marched three miles last night that the custom of sixty years might not be broken.

Starting at the Twentieth Ward Club on Master street near Thirteenth, the marchers moved south on Broad street to City Hall, where the band played three selections while the marchers rested; then to Spruce street, counter-marching to Chestnut; then east to Eleventh street to headquarters of the Republican city committee.

Mr. Lane joined the marchers at the club and walked along, cane in hand, upon each side two men walking with umbrellas. When he reached Eleventh and Chestnut streets he was so exhausted by the long march that he was forced to rest upon the second floor before attempting the climb to the floor above.

Friends feared at first the march might have been too much for him, but he quickly recovered from his fatigue.

Congressman Moore was serenaded by the band at the Lincoln Building before the parade disbanded, the marchers being jubilant that their ward had pilled up a majority of 6000 for Congressman Moore.

UNCLE DAVE NOT SURPRISED

Big Organization Majorities for Moore Please Lane

"I made no predictions regarding the election," said David H. Lane, veteran Republican leader of the Twentieth ward today, "but I am not surprised at the result."

"I am particularly pleased at the way the Organization wards rallied up majorities for Mr. Moore. The only question about Council is which side has a majority, by which they will all be for the new Mayor."

"Do you think there will be harmony now?" he was asked. He laughed and said nothing.

ASKS RANK FOR 5 GENERALS

Pershing Favors Liggett, Bullard, Dickman, McAndrew and Harbord

Washington, Nov. 5.—(By A. P.)—Permanent rank of lieutenant general for Lieutenant General Liggett and Bullard and Major General Dickman, McAndrew and Harbord, was recommended today by General Pershing when he resumed his statement before the Senate and House military committees.

Liggett, Bullard and Dickman were army commanders overseas, while Harbord and McAndrew were successively chief of staff of the American expeditionary forces.

SILVERWARE OF DISTINCTION

Designs That Will Lose None of Their Artistic Charm Through the Intimacy of Constant Association; Quality That Will Withstand the Rigors of Daily Use for Generations.

TEA, DINNER, AND DESSERT SETS, KNIVES, FORKS, SPOONS AND SERVERS.

J. E. CALDWELL & Co. JEWELERS—SILVERSMITHS—STATIONERS—CHESTNUT AND JUNIPER STREETS

2.50 SUNDAYS

November 9 and 16

New York

Direct to Pennsylvania Station, 7th Avenue and 32d Street, New York, leaves

Broad Street Station 8:03 A.M. West Philadelphia 8:08 A.M. North Philadelphia 8:13 A.M.

See Flyers—Consult Agents

The right is reserved to limit the sale of tickets to the capacity of the equipment available on the day preceding excursion.

Pennsylvania R. R.

Frankenstein received 2761 and 2918 votes respectively. Burch and Develin on the other hand polled only 1671 and 1690 respectively, a cut of more than 1000 votes.

In the Forty-sixth ward, which had been generously advertised as the hotbed of anti-Vare sentiment, Vare men fighting Vare men from one end of the district to the other. Since then Carney, on behalf of the Moore leadership, has been smoothing things out, with the result that, politically speaking, the northeast, once a Vare stronghold, is believed to be solidly for Moore.

This, it is said, accounts for the signal collapse of the movement to "knif" Moore candidates in favor of Harry Schuster, Charter party candidate for Council.

To Organize January 5

The new Council will organize on the first Monday of the new year, January 5. Richard Weglein, one of the three councilmen-elect from the Seventh district, is a candidate for president, backed by the Republican Alliance.

Francis F. Burch and James A. Develin, councilmen-elect from the West Philadelphia district, are being urged by Independent Republican leaders, Charles B. Hall, to be elected by the Vare forces.

The Charter party movement, behind which the "knifing" campaign against Republican nominees for Council in West Philadelphia was concealed, ran against a stone wall of independent Republican support.

The disgruntled elements in that section of the city centered on the candidacy of James J. Hilsard, fusion nominee for the Charter and Democratic parties, and made a futile effort to out Develin, Republican nominee. Hilsard's vote was only 15,794, while Develin's vote was 21,539.

The four councilmen-elect, receiving a total of 31,130. Francis F. Burch, who was also under the fire of unscrupulous Vare men, polled a total of 40,811. Mayor Reyer, elected in 1907, had 33,003 plurality, while Mayor Blankensburg, in 1911, had 4364.

The plurality of Edwin S. Stuart was 30,665, at his election in 1891. Mayor Smith's plurality was 78,508.

Plurality for Moore Biggest on Record Here

Mayor-elect Moore's plurality, 197,170, was the largest ever given to a majority nominee in Philadelphia.

The nearest approach to this was made by John Weaver, in 1903, with a plurality of 136,012. The next highest plurality was that of Samuel H. Ashbridge, 122,241, in 1890. Mayor Reyer, elected in 1907, had 33,003 plurality, while Mayor Blankensburg, in 1911, had 4364.

The plurality of Edwin S. Stuart was 30,665, at his election in 1891. Mayor Smith's plurality was 78,508.

Light Vote on Judgeships

Comparatively light interest was manifested in the balloting for judicial offices.

As all of the candidates for judgeships were sole nominees, the lack of opposition caused thousands of voters to neglect the judicial nominees, as is usual in such cases.

The vote received by the judicial candidates was a little more than half that received by the Republican candidates.

Judge William H. Keller, for Superior Court, polled 123,412 votes. Other nominees received the following: Judge McCullen, for Common Pleas No. 4, 126,048; Judge Henderson, for Orphans' Court, 124,740; Judge McNichol, for Municipal Court, 121,148; Judge Bartlett, for Municipal Court, 123,963.

The four Republican magisterial nominees were carried along close to the majority and row office nominees. Democratic elected two of the three minority magistrates, but lost the third to the Charter party.

DEATHS

SCHWARTZ—Nov. 5, EFFIE R., wife of Fred Schwartz, 62 years old, died at her home, 1234 Locust street, Philadelphia, Pa.

LABORERS WANTED—COOK, WAGES, STEADY WORK, APPLY EARL BRICKENRIDGE, 1234 Locust street, Philadelphia, Pa.

PERSONALS

CHARLES BERG, 5309 Oxford st., has sold his business to MESSRS. GOLDSTEIN and creditors call on or before Nov. 7, 1919.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

CITY

CENTRAL CORNER PROPERTY

Three blocks west of City Hall. Address Owner, 21 1/2, Ledger Office.

RECOVERING FROM SIXTH OPERATION

New York, Nov. 5.—Dr. Francis L. R. Satterlee, of Flushing, L. I., whose brother, Henry L. Satterlee, married a daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is slowly recovering from the effects of the sixth operation performed on his right hand to prevent the spread of a cancerous growth. Dr. Satterlee is an eminent X-ray specialist, and it is believed the cancer was cured by burns received in his work years ago.

RECOVERING FROM SIXTH OPERATION

New York, Nov. 5.—Dr. Francis L. R. Satterlee, of Flushing, L. I., whose brother, Henry L. Satterlee, married a daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is slowly recovering from the effects of the sixth operation performed on his right hand to prevent the spread of a cancerous growth. Dr. Satterlee is an eminent X-ray specialist, and it is believed the cancer was cured by burns received in his work years ago.

RECOVERING FROM SIXTH OPERATION

New York, Nov. 5.—Dr. Francis L. R. Satterlee, of Flushing, L. I., whose brother, Henry L. Satterlee, married a daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is slowly recovering from the effects of the sixth operation performed on his right hand to prevent the spread of a cancerous growth. Dr. Satterlee is an eminent X-ray specialist, and it is believed the cancer was cured by burns received in his work years ago.

RECOVERING FROM SIXTH OPERATION

New York, Nov. 5.—Dr. Francis L. R. Satterlee, of Flushing, L. I., whose brother, Henry L. Satterlee, married a daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is slowly recovering from the effects of the sixth operation performed on his right hand to prevent the spread of a cancerous growth. Dr. Satterlee is an eminent X-ray specialist, and it is believed the cancer was cured by burns received in his work years ago.

RECOVERING FROM SIXTH OPERATION

New York, Nov. 5.—Dr. Francis L. R. Satterlee, of Flushing, L. I., whose brother, Henry L. Satterlee, married a daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is slowly recovering from the effects of the sixth operation performed on his right hand to prevent the spread of a cancerous growth. Dr. Satterlee is an eminent X-ray specialist, and it is believed the cancer was cured by burns received in his work years ago.

RECOVERING FROM SIXTH OPERATION

New York, Nov. 5.—Dr. Francis L. R. Satterlee, of Flushing, L. I., whose brother, Henry L. Satterlee, married a daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is slowly recovering from the effects of the sixth operation performed on his right hand to prevent the spread of a cancerous growth. Dr. Satterlee is an eminent X-ray specialist, and it is believed the cancer was cured by burns received in his work years ago.